State of Pará today:
predatory exploitation
and poverty

A photograph of a logger in a forest. The logger is wearing a red shirt, a red helmet, and gloves, and is using a chainsaw to cut a large tree trunk. The tree trunk is covered in moss and lichen. The background shows a dense forest with green foliage. The text "Authorized logging: three ways" is overlaid on the image in white, bold, sans-serif font.

Authorized logging: three ways

The background of the image is a close-up, high-angle shot of a large pile of cut logs. The logs are stacked closely together, showing their circular cross-sections. The wood has a warm, brownish-orange hue, and some logs show signs of weathering or moss growth. A semi-transparent horizontal band across the middle of the image contains the text.

"Apparent legality"

A close-up, artistic photograph of a blue circular scale, likely from a scientific instrument. The scale features white markings and numbers, including 42, 43, 30, 31, 32, and 45. The perspective is from a low angle, looking into the center of the scale, creating a sense of depth and rotation. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the scale's surface.

Needs: improvements in the control system, increased supervision and encouragement to legal logging.
