China’s Forest Product Exports 1997-2004

• Overall growth
  – Export more timber products than pup & paper

• Major products
  – Timber products: wood furniture, plywood, wood chips
  – Paper

• Major export markets
  – USA, Japan, S. Korea
China’s Forest Product Exports 1997-2004
Comparison of China’s Pulp and Paper Exports

- Exports (1,000 RWE cubic meters)
- Comparison lines: Total, Pulp, Paper & Paperboard
Major destinations of China’s forest product exports (2004)

- United States: 36%
- EU: 14%
- Japan: 14%
- Others: 16%
- Hong Kong: 14%
- Taiwan: 2%
- Korea, South: 3%

Legend:
- Hong Kong
- Japan
- Korea, South
- Others
- United States
- EU
- Taiwan
Composition of China’s timber product exports
Major Destinations of China’s timber Product Exports

![Diagram showing the major destinations of China’s timber product exports from 1997 to 2004. The destinations include Japan, Taiwan, United States, Korea, South, Hong Kong, EU, and Others. The exports are measured in cubic meters. The diagram shows a significant increase in exports from 2001 onwards.]

- Japan
- Taiwan
- United States
- Korea, South
- Hong Kong
- EU
- Others
Major destinations of total forest product exports
Major destinations of China’s plywood exports
Major destinations of China’s wooden furniture exports
Major destinations of China’s lumber exports

![Graph showing major destinations of China's lumber exports from 1997 to 2004. The graph uses a stacked bar chart to display the exports (cubic meters) to Japan, Korea, South, Hong Kong, Taiwan, United States, and Others. The bars for each year show the proportion of exports to each destination.]
Major destinations of China’s wood chips exports
Major destinations of China’s paper exports

The chart shows the major destinations of China’s paper exports from 1997 to 2004. The exports are measured in cubic meters. The destinations are Hong Kong, United States, Taiwan, Japan, EU, and Others. The chart indicates a significant increase in exports over the years, with Hong Kong and the United States being the primary destinations.